BISMARCK STILL TALKING.

He has a Good Word to Say for Nearly Everybody.

LONDON, June 11.—The Telegraph of today continues the report of its correspondent's interview with Prince Bismarck. The Prince ridiculed the kind friends of Germany who rejoiced at his resignation and now want him to be speechless. He declared his intention to continue to serve the country until the last. He said he was able to do so now with a freer hand. For instance, in France and Russia, the only countries that could possibly bear a grudge, he was able, now that he was unfettered by official restraints, in many ways to promote peace. He discussed at length the relations between Germany and France, which, he said, were excellent. The attitude of the French government was exemplary and of the French people, pacific. Nobody was more earnest for peace than was Emperor William, who, bent upon internal reform for Germany, had no idea of aggression. Being asked whether it was possible to extinguish the French people's grievance by the restoration of their provinces, the Prince declared that restoration was utterly impossible and that it must be left to time to remove their resentment. Relations with Russia, he said, were equally good and she certainly would not attack Germany. The Czar was amicably disposed toward Germany. He was averse to conquest and he disliked physical exertion, a point that was not without importance to the peace of Europe. Prince Bismarck was unable to say anything about Bulgaria, except that the Dreibund was strong enough to prevent the disturbing of peace on her account. The Dreibund, he said, was as firm as ever and was certain to endure. Only the most unforeseen accident could disturb the European peace. He believed it impossible that England and Germany should ever go to war or should even quarrel seriously. If they did quarrel it might lead to a continental conflict, even if England abstained from fighting. This, however, was a contingency that was wildly improbable. The African dispute was a trifling matter. The money involved on the part of both companies was less than a single day's expenditure when preparing for a great war. "Few trustworthy Europeans," said Bismarck, "know or care about these mysterious regions. For my own part, I believe that Lord Salisbury's temperate words are more to England's taste than Stanley's fierce ones. We are both fair dealing people and respect one another sincerely. We can easily come to a proper understanding. There has been plenty of arrant nonsense talked and written about this paltry affair. A few plain words dictated by common reason do no harm."

In conclusion Prince Bismarck spoke in the highest praise of Emperor Frederick, saying that he was a true Hohenzollern of the finest character, of most brilliant capacities and of heroic courage. He added that, had the late Emperor lived, he would have astonished the world by the vigor of his personality and his rule.

A FUNNEL-SHAPED CLOUD.

Immense Damage to Property and Many Persons Reported Killed in an Illinois Village.

NEW YORK, June 11.—A special from Joliet, Illinois, to the Herald says that a funnel-shaped cloud passed through the village of Channahon at 9 o'clock last night, doing immense damage and killing and injuring, it is understood, quite a number of people. Channahon is nine miles south of here and has about one thousand inhabitants. A telephone message says the roaring of the cyclone could be heard four miles away, but the people were too frightened to extend aid to the sufferers. A large strip of country was devastated. Reports indicate that the list of killed and wounded will be large. Surgeons have been sent from here to relieve their sufferings. From the meagre information at hand it seems that most of the damage done by the storm was in the country around Channahon, and that the majority of the casualties occurred outside the town. While it is believed that the reports so far received are exaggerated, the belief is prevalent that a great disaster has occurred.

Major Wissmann Surprised at Stanley's Utterances.

CAIRO, June 11.—Major Wissman is surprised at Stanley's utterances. He says there is plenty of room in Africa for both nations and there is no need of a quarrel about the frontier, the settlement of which will present no difficulty. Wissmann declares that one tenth of Egypt is worth more than the whole of southeast Africa.

A BRUTE OF A HUSBAND.

A Third Avenue Tragedy in New York City.

NEW YORK, June 11. A child's terrified cry and a woman's call for help brought a policeman to No. 1,889 Third avenue late last night. He found Mary Lester lying bleeding from four knife wounds. Her husband, an ex-convict, had stabbed her. The child who had cried out, and stood by her was her six-year-old boy. He had tried to push his father away from his mother and the father had cut him too. As the officer came in a man ran up to the roof and got to the street by way of an adjoining house. The officer shouted to a policeman below and Lester ran into the policeman's arms. Lester had his knife in his hand and tried to use it on the officer, but got the worst of the tussle, and was badly cut with his own weapon. A crowd tried to mob him after his arrest. All three Lesters were taken to the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Lester is very badly hurt and the boy is seriously cut. Lester himself is said to be in a very bad way.

ENGLAND IN EGYPT.

France's Reply Assenting to the Conversion Scheme.

PARIS, June 11.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday M. Ribot, minister of foreign affairs, read France's note to Egypt. After declaring that the difficulty of employing the profits of the conversion of the debt is more serious than the conversion itself, France contends that the time has arrived when England, in accordance with the many declarations and self-congratulations of her ministers, and for the prosperity and security of Egypt, ought to evacuate the country. The note expresses surprise that the powers do not agree in recognizing that the profits of the conversion ought to be applied to increasing Egypt's military forces, in order to enable her to dispense with the British troops. Believing, however, that all the parties interested are disposed to give the subject frank consideration, France assents to the conversion scheme, reserving the question of evacuation for future negotiations. After reading the note M. Ribot declared that France desired the most cordial relations with England but would lose no opportunity to protest against England establishing herself in Egypt.

The Canadian Methodists Refuse their Share of the Jesuits' Money.

OTTAWA, June 11.—The Methodist conference has adopted a resolution expressing its refusal of any share of the $60,000 awarded the Protestant denominations in Quebec in connection with the settlement of the Jesuit estates. This action is entirely unexpected and will place the Quebec government in a queer position. Though the Jesuits for a century had pressed their claim for compensation for the confiscation of their property by the Crown, no statesman gave it a moment's consideration until Premier Mercier appeared on the scene. The compensation awarded amounted to nearly $500,000, of which the Catholics received $400,000.

THE SCUP FISHING SEASON CLOSED.

Messrs. Joseph Church & Co. of Tiverton report as follows: The trap fishing between Point Judith and Seaconnet is closed for the season. Scup were as plenty as ever known during the spring of 1889, and as scarce as ever known during the spring of 1890. A large crop of small scup are on the coast, twenty-five to the pound, which means plenty of scup during the years of 1891 and 1892. Sculpin failed to make their appearance, except in small quantities, say one this year to ten last.

NEW ENGLAND BAPTIST MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

The sessions of the New England Baptist Missionary Conference opened at the Shiloh Baptist Church this morning with a devotional meeting, two hours in length, led by Rev. C. L. Davies of Greensboro, N. C., and characterized by fervor and animation.

During the forenoon the board of the convention was in session.

About sixty-five members of the convention have already arrived and many others are expected during the afternoon and evening. This afternoon the convention met for organization and the conduct of routine business.

The services this evening will be of an interesting nature and will consist of an introductory sermon by Dr. Harvey Johnson of Baltimore, the regular appointee, Dr. Carter of Boston, being detained by illness. The sermon is to be followed by an address of welcome by Rev. H. N. Jeter, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church, and the reading of the letter of the Shiloh Church.

It is of interest to note the large increase in the number of churches included in the convention, and also the very large gain in the membership of the several churches. Thirteen years ago the convention was composed of only twenty-three churches, with a membership of 1,571. Now the number of churches has been swelled to sixty-one and the membership reported is 7,591.

It is supposed that there are but two perfect copies of the original edition of the sonnets of Shakespeare, and one of these was recently sold for $5,000. The book weighs less than ten ounces, and the price was therefore $500 an ounce, or many times its own weight in gold.

The New England Magazine is giving special attention just now to interesting matters of Rhode Island history. The May number of the magazine contains a careful paper on "How Rhode Island Received the Constitution," and the June number, just published, contains a long and valuable article by Charles H. Payne on "The Dorr War," with a portrait of Dorr.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, June 11. Wall Street.—Opening prices:- Canada Southern, 60¼; Lackawanna, 116¾; Lake Shore, 113; Louisville & Nashville, 90; Missouri Pacific, 76¼; Northern Pacific, 39¼; Northern Pacific preferred, 85¼; New York Central, 110¼; Oregon Transcontinental, 51¼; Reading, 47¼; Rock Island, 91¾; St. Paul, 77¼; Union Pacific, 66¾; Western Union, 85¼; New York & New England, 49¾; Sugar Trust, 85.

11 A. M.—The stock market was again weak at the opening this morning under the combined influence of lower London prices and renewed hammering by the bears and traders. First prices showed declines ranging generally from ⅛ to ¼ per cent., but Louisville & Nashville was exceptional, with a loss of ⅝, and Chicago Gas, with 1 per cent. This was followed by further fractional losses in the early trading, those stocks which had shown the smallest losses at the opening declining most. Oregon Transcontinental lost ¾; Missouri Pacific, Northern Pacific and Richmond & West Point ⅜ each, and the others insignificant fractions. The industrial stocks, however, were specially weak again, and Chicago Gas, after opening off 1 per cent, at 53, further declined 1⅛, and Sugar, after opening ⅛ higher, declined a like amount. A partial recovery occurred in the weakest stocks and the market became more quiet, and at 11 o'clock it was quiet and barely steady, generally at small fractions lower than the opening figures.

Noon—Money on call, easy at 5 @ 6 per cent.; prime mercantile paper, 5 @ 6½; bar silver, 101⅝; exchange, active and firm; actual rates, $4.85 @ ¼ for sixty days, and $4.87½ @ ¾ for demand; posted rates, $4.86 @ 8½; governments, dull and steady; 4s reg., 121; 4s coup., 122; 4½s reg., 103; 4½s coup., 103; railroad bonds, quiet and steady to firm; Pacific 6s, 113. The weakness in the stock market was again renewed after 11 o'clock, but as the market was extremely dull, the downward movement made but slight progress. A somewhat better tone prevailed later in the hour, but there was no improvement in business and at noon the market was intensely dull and steady at small fractions under the opening figures.

Merited Endorsement by the U. S. Government.

After exhaustive experiments and competitive tests the Government at Washington have ordered for the Boston Postoffice and Sub-Treasury large quantities of Ozonos in both liquid and powder form to be used during the ensuing year. Hereafter no other disinfectant will be accepted in those departments.

The action of the Government in specifying Ozonos as the only disinfectant to be used in future and the unqualified adoption of this great deodorizer by the city of Boston for her Fire, Police and other departments, thoroughly establishes the superiority of the preparation and is a liberal and merited endorsement of the well grounded claims of the manufacturers that Ozonos stands without a rival, and is, without doubt, the most thorough, harmless and economical disinfectant ever introduced to the American people.

THE RHODE ISLAND EPISCOPALIANS.

The Last Day of the Diocesan Convention at Providence.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, June 11.

The second and final day's session of the Protestant Episcopal Centenary Convention was held in St. John's Church this morning, all the delegates attending. After services in the church the delegates met in the chapel at 11.30, Bishop Clark presiding. The committee on canons had reported in favor of holding a public missionary meeting on the evening of the first day's session of the convention, and in accordance with their report the following resolution was adopted:—

Resolved, That the board of missions is hereby instructed to arrange at the next diocesan convention for a public meeting in behalf of missions to be held in the evening in the church in which the sessions of the convention are held, notices of the meeting to be sent to the several parishes at least two weeks before the convention.

The committee on place of meeting reported in favor of St. Michael's Church, Bristol, for the next convention, and it was voted to hold the convention there.

The committee on Episcopal fund replied, in answer to a question, that it was hard to estimate the increase over last year; it might be $800.

The election of a standing committee followed, ballots similar to those used in the Australian system, with the names of ten clergymen and ten laymen, being distributed. Four of each were to be selected, and the following were declared elected:—Rev. C. A. L. Richards, Rev. Daniel Goodwin, Rev. Daniel Henshaw, Rev. G. J. Magill, W. W. Blodgett, John N. Brown, T. P. I. Goddard, C. M. Smith.

Rev. C. A. L. Richards, Rev. C. H. Cocroft, Rathbone Gardner, D. L. D. Granger and G. H. Stiness were elected to fill vacancies on the board of missions.

J. W. Angell was unanimously re-elected treasurer of the Diocesan Convention.

Rev. W. N. Ackley, Rev. Daniel Goodwin, Rev. W. S. Chase, D. L. D. Granger and William Greene were appointed a committee on Christian education.

The following were elected to fill vacancies:—William Ames, on board of auditing and finance; John B. Anthony, on board of trustees of Episcopal fund; Henry C. Beckwith, on board of trustees of churches and glebes; M. B. I. Goddard, on board for relief of widows and orphans.

One thousand copies of the diocesan journal were ordered printed, and it was decided to put the parochial reports in the body of the journal, instead of in table form.

$1,000 was asked for to pay certain debts of the board of missions. It was at once contributed.

A committee was appointed to report to the next convention on allowing unbaptized persons to serve as vestrymen.

A resolution was passed in relation to the health of Bishop Clark, and the hope expressed that he would entirely recover his good health.

Rev. C. A. L. Richards, Rev. Mr. Fiske, Rev. Mr. Locke and Messrs. Stiness and Richmond were appointed a committee to consider the restoration of the convocation for increasing interest in missions.

After the benediction the convention adjourned.

A TRAIN ROBBER CAPTURED.

How the Plan to Rob the Missouri Pacific Train Last Sunday Worked.

DICKINSON, North Dakota, June 11.—Intense excitement prevailed here last evening, when the news spread that Sheriff Hayes of this county had captured one of the participants in the robbery of the Northern Pacific train at New Salem, last Sunday. The sheriff and two other men arrived with the prisoner and lodged him in jail. In crossing Grand river, about eighty miles south of here, the robbers horse was injured, compelling him to stop in his flight, and when the officers first discovered him yesterday morning he made a desperate effort to escape but, after a race of several miles and seeing that escape was impossible, he surrendered. He gave some valuable information, showing that the robbery of the train had been deliberately planned. He gave his name as Charles E. Bailey. There were five men in the band, two of whom came from the West on the train which they assisted in robbing. The other three were in readiness at the scene of the robbery with horses and, after the job was completed, the three latter started South and separated when a few miles out, one going toward the Missouri river, one West and the prisoner was making for the Black Hills. The two who came from the West remained on the train and from what the prisoner says there is no doubt that it was their intention to rob the passengers, but for some reason this was abandoned. The prisoner offered the sheriff $1,000 to release him which was refused. The prisoner claimed he was under obligation to assist the others, but he is a desperate-looking man and evidently a desperado. When captured he was supplied with a fifty-pound sack of flour and some bacon.

The City of Rome's Injuries More Serious than at First Supposed.

LIVERPOOL, June 11.—Examination shows the condition of Anchor line steamer City of Rome, now docked for repairs at Birkenhead, to be more serious than was at first believed. It will require at least a week's work to repair the thirty-foot hole which has been found in the steamer's forepeak.

Experts who have examined the hull of the steamer declare that the prompt closing of the sliding door in the bulkhead separating the forepeak from the adjacent compartment alone prevented the instant sinking of the steamer, after she struck. The prow is torn away for a distance of twenty feet from the keel.

A Rich Find of Copper Ore Mixed With Silver in Wisconsin.

ASHLAND, WIS., June 11.—An immensely rich deposit of copper ore, mixed with silver in paying quantities, has been found west of Drummond, near Eau Claire lakes, one vein being traced a distance of three miles. Allouez is the name bestowed upon the new range which is properly an extension of the Gogebic iron range.

BOSTON, June 11.—Joseph Donovan, fifty years old, residing at 83 Chelsea street, fell from the gang plank of steamer Bulgaria this morning and was drowned. He leaves a widow.

Forty Years in One Church.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., June 11.—The fortieth anniversary of the settlement of Rev. F. D. Avery, as pastor of the Columbia Congregational Church, is being appropriately observed at Columbia today. Mr. Avery is the oldest minister by continuous settlement in the Congregational denomination in the state.

An Accident to a Circus.

BROCKTON, Mass., June 11.—Washburn & Arlington's circus met with an accident in this city early this morning. One of the cars jumped the track near Lawrence street, overturning a chariot and slightly injuring two men. The circus employees in the sleepers were shaken up, but sustained no injuries.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 11.—The thirty-ninth annual session of the New England Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Bethel Church opened in the Bethel Mission in this city at 10.30 today, Bishop A. M. Turner, D. D., of Atlanta, Ga., presiding. He spoke a few words from Matthew x, where it is commanded to repent for the kingdom of God is at hand, and enlarged upon that thought by pointing out the many ways of doing good work that are open to the pastors. A few pleasant words were spoken to the delegates present, and the hope was expressed that the conference would be a successful one.

Rev. R. F. Combash, D. D., of Providence, R. I., was appointed secretary.

Rev. W. H. H. Butler of Tennessee and Rev. N. W. Berry of Georgia were received into the conference. The address of welcome was made by Rev. J. P. Stevens of this city and a response was made by Rev. Theodore Gould of Boston.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN WEDDED.

Prominent Parnellites Witness the Ceremony.

LONDON, June 11.—The wedding of Mr. William O'Brien, the well-known Irish leader and editor of the Freeman's Journal, to Mlle. Raffalovitch, daughter of M. Raffalovitch, a banker of Paris, took place today at the Brompton Oratory in this city. The ceremony was performed by Most Rev. Thomas W. Croke, Archbishop of Cashel. Among the guests present were Mr. Parnell and other colleagues of the bridegroom in the House of Commons. Mr. John Dillon acted as groomsman. An immense crowd gathered about the oratory and most of the people wore sprigs of shamrock in honor of the occasion. As the newly-wedded couple left the oratory and entered their carriage they were enthusiastically cheered by the crowd.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

The National Congress in Session at New York.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The National Temperance Congress opened today in the Broadway Tabernacle. It was called to order by Colonel Alexander S. Bacon. Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems was elected president and Joseph A. Bogardus secretary. Dr. Deems announced the one object of the congress to be the promotion of the cause of temperance, with no divergence to partisanship or sectarianism.

After prayer by Rev. Dr. Parker the work of the congress opened with a discussion on "Is State and National Prohibition Desirable and Feasible?" The first speaker was the venerable General Neal Dow. On the question whether prohibition is desirable he drew a picture of Maine as it was before prohibition laws were enacted and as it is now, the contrast from his standpoint being strongly in favor of the present condition of things. As to its feasibility the speaker said the friends of temperance can get anything they want from the legislators if they show unity in their demands. The assertion that prohibition does not prohibit he stigmatized as false. The advocates of high license alone stand between prohibition and the liquor traffic.

Robert Graham, who was introduced as the representative of the church movement in behalf of temperance, took the ground that national or state prohibition was neither desirable nor feasible. Total prohibition of the sale or manufacture of wines and fermented or distilled liquors would, he said, be an extreme law, and should have an impregnable basis. Where was that impregnable basis to be found? Was it in the Scriptures? Where was the commandant "Thou shalt not drink?" Drunkenness was forbidden, but drinking was a matter between one's own conscience and God. Prohibition, he asserted, was not effective. In spite of it the sale of liquor goes on, practically openly, in Portland, Bangor and other towns of Maine and in New Hampshire, Vermont and Iowa. He was in favor of high license.

SMUGGLING CHINESE.

Steamer North Star Seized by Canadian Authorities.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 11.—The little steamer North Star has been seized by customs inspectors on charges of violating the Canadian customs act. Captain Ettel and Fred Jones are owners of the North Star. The steamer, it is alleged, has been for the past six months engaged in carrying Chinese from British Columbia into Washington. The program has been to run out of Victoria at night, land her contraband cargo at some quiet place on the American shore and at once start back into Canadian waters. The Chinese smuggled out are disposed of to Mongolian contractors, who pay $20 to $25 apiece for them. The buyers have agents at hand wherever a landing is made, and the Chinese are secreted for two or three days and then shipped to Seattle, Portland or California points. The North Star is accused also of bringing back American goods and landing them along the coast near Victoria and this caused her seizure.

The Militia Called Upon to Quell a Strikers' Riot.

VIENNA, June 11.—The strikers at Bennisch, Silesia, are acting in a riotous manner. They attacked the factories yesterday and with clubs and stones smashed all the windows in sixteen of them. Several of the factories were otherwise damaged by the rioters. A number of the strikers were arrested and their comrades assaulted the police in their attempts to rescue them. The trouble became so serious that the military were called upon, and the troops soon quelled the rioting.

Death of a Prominent Citizen of New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 11.—Hon. Oliver Prescott died at his residence in this city today in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He was judge of the probate court in New Bedford until it was abolished in 1858 and was judge of the police court from 1846 to 1858, when he resigned. He was a well-known lawyer.

Congressman Dingley Renominated.

LEWISTON, Me., June 11.—The Second District Republican Convention today renominated Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., for Congress by acclamation.

Will Not Join the General Synod.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, at this morning's session voted against union with the General Synod. The vote was: 129, against union; 17, for union; absent, 25, and not voting 12.

Affairs in Buenos Ayres.

BUENOS AYRES, June 11.—Senor Garcia, the new finance minister, favors the completion of the loan proposed by his predecessor, Senor Uriburu. The city is tranquil. The feeling is general that the government must continue its economic policy. The premium on gold closed yesterday at 158, seven points below the highest figure of the day.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

The Senate Committee Amends the Bill Passed by the House.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Senate committee on finance today considered and amended the House silver bill. The provision making the certificates issued in payment of bullion legal tender for public and private debts was stricken out, leaving them receivable for customs, taxes and public dues. The bullion redemption clause was stricken out; also the section providing for free coinage of silver whenever the market price is $1 for 371¼ grains of pure silver. This act is made to take effect in thirty days after passage and shall terminate at the expiration of ten years therefrom.

A British Gunboat Stranded.

LONDON, June 11.—British gunboat Foxhound is stranded in Menai straits, Wales.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, June 11.

Senate.

Adverse reports were made from the finance committee on Mr. Stanford's bill for government loans on liens of real estate, and on the bill to abolish metal money, and the bills were indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Morrill, from the committee on finance, reported back favorably and with sundry amendments the House silver bill and gave notice that at the proper time he would offer it as a substitute for the Senate bill.

The Senate silver bill was taken up and Mr. Eustis addressed the Senate, favoring the unrestricted and free coinage of silver.

House.

The speaker announced the appointment of Mr. Mills of Texas a member of the committee on rules, and Mr. Turner of Georgia as a member of the committee on ways and means, to fill vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Carlisle of Kentucky.

Mr. Morrill of Kansas presented the conference report on the Senate dependent pension bill.

Mr. Springer of Illinois asked that the report go over until tomorrow in order that it might be printed in the Record and members be given an opportunity to examine its provisions, but Mr. Morrill objected. The previous question was ordered—yeas, 119; nays, 76.

Mr. Morrill, in explanation of the report, stated that the conference committee had struck out the dependent feature of the Senate bill and the service feature of the House bill. The measure, as determined upon, was not exactly what he would desire, but it was the best that he could obtain. It would distribute $45,000,000 among the poor soldiers of the nation.

JAMESTOWN.

Conanicut Council, Royal Arcanum, received an official visit last evening from the officers of the Grand Council of Rhode Island. Among those present were—Grand Regent A. L. Anthony of Providence, Vice Grand Regent C. H. Bower of Pawtucket, Past Grand Regent A. K. McMahon of Newport, Grand Treasurer E. L. Spencer of Jamestown, Grand Sentinel J. M. Braman, Grand Trustee E. C. Dubois of East Providence, District Deputy V. P. Peckham of Conanicut Council, District Deputy O. A. Carleton of Providence Council, and also the officers and members of the Narragansett Council of Wickford. After going through the lodge work the visitors were handsomely entertained with refreshments at the Prospect House.

Mr. B. H. Shoemaker and family arrived today at their cottage in the Highlands.

Dr. F. H. Clarke of Boston and Mrs. J. M. Frantz, Miss Frantz and Mrs. J. R. McMullany of Philadelphia are registered at the Gardner House.

Dr. F. H. Clarke of Boston was in town today.

H. C. Potter and Harry Potter of Philadelphia, Miss Goodwin, Miss S. G. Wadsworth and Master Wadsworth of Boston, A. L. Anthony of Providence, C. H. Bowen of Pawtucket, E. A. Dubois of East Providence, C. A. Carleton of Providence and T. P. Peckham and A. K. McMahon of Newport are registered at the Prospect House.

NAVAL NOTES.

Lieutenant Commander Harry Knox is detached from the Boston and placed on waiting orders.

Lieutenant J. F. Moser is detached from coast survey steamer Bache and ordered to duty connected with the preparation of the San Francisco for sea.

Assistant Engineer W. S. Smith is detached from the Galena and placed on waiting orders.

LOCAL NOTES.

—Mr. Herreshoff's white steam yacht arrived this morning from Bristol and sailed again.

—Carry Brothers have a fish resembling a sheepshead, caught off West Island, for which they want a name.

—Mr. E. C. Romans has a new and handsome naphtha launch, thirty feet long, named Truant, which has replaced the sailboat that for years past has run between here and Gould island.

—Rev. R. Gordon Mackay, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, is in town on a brief visit. He has been supplying the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Lancaster, Mass., and has been asked to settle there, but he prefers not to take any pulpit at present, desiring to continue his studies further. He may go to Europe in the autumn.

—But for the prompt act of Officer Moore there would have been a serious runaway on Bellevue avenue this afternoon. Dr. Kenefick's horse was hitched in front of DeBlois, Hunter & Eldridge's office and his leg got crossed in the strap attached to the weight. The horse backed rapidly and was about to break away, after removing his blinders, when Officer Moore seized him. New blinders will be needed.

—This week's Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper has a good picture of Tom Pettitt.

—The delegates to the New England Baptist Missionary Conference are provided with meals in Masonic Hall, by members of the Shiloh Baptist Church.

—Mr. Cottrell completed the sidewalk around the new Newton building today, and it helps to make the corner of Pelham street one of the best looking in town.

—Beginning next Sunday, boats of the Continental Steamboat Company will leave Newport at 8 A. M. and 4.30 P. M., and Providence at 9 A. M. and 4 P. M. On Sundays, boats leave Newport at 8.15 and 11.50 A. M. and 5 P. M., and Providence at 10 A. M. and 2.10 and 6 P. M.

—Mr. J. H. Martin is lame and is covered with bruises. On Monday night he took a ride on horseback out in the country. The horse, in the darkness, tumbled headlong over an embankment on the side of the road and Mr. Martin, who, of course, was dismounted, had a very narrow escape.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

PROCLAMATION

BY HIS EXCELLENCY,

JOHN W. DAVIS, Governor.

WHEREAS, the General Assembly adjourned on Friday, May 30th, ult., leaving certain important acts of general legislation under consideration, the determination of which are matters of great public interest,
NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOHN W. DAVIS, Governor of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, pursuant to the provisions of Section 7 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State, do issue this my proclamation convening the General Assembly of this State to meet at the State House in Providence, on

Tuesday, June 17, A. D. 1890,

AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.,

To take such action as may be deemed advisable in the premises.
{L.S.} IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the State to be affixed at Providence, this seventh day of June, A. D. 1890.
JOHN W. DAVIS.
By the Governor:
EDWIN D. MCGUINNESS,
Secretary of State.

The cruel telephone war still rages, and Ochre Point is in danger.

The Democrats in Vermont have divided into hostile camps, but they stand just as good a chance of carrying the state as they did before.

The Senate committee has decided to retain the Hennepin canal clause in the river and harbor bill, and President Harrison is quite likely to veto the measure.

The Fall River Globe cannot believe that there are any dissensions among the Rhode Island Democrats, and perhaps there are not. There is nothing like an outside view of things.

Broker George H. Pell goes to state's prison for seven years and a half for the part he took in wrecking the three New York banks. And yet it is doubtful if he is more guilty than some others, who go at large.

Measures have been taken in London to regulate the rate of speed on the part of ocean steamers. In view of the recklessness exhibited during the past few months and the perils which have been barely escaped something should be done for the protection of life and property on sea as well as on land.

The feeling against the colored man is by no means dead in the South. The Louisiana legislature has advanced through its preliminary stages a bill requiring railway companies to provide equal accommodations for white and colored people in separate cars and requiring each race to travel exclusively in the cars provided for it.

President Harrison and Vice President Morton are both indignant at the action of the New York Presbyterians, who took action condemning the former for drinking wine and the latter for keeping it on sale in his hotel. Mr. Harrison, who is a Presbyterian, thinks the synod too particular and Mr. Morton considers it nobody's business but his own.

Governor Hill of New York will go to Indianapolis to be present at the unveiling of the Hendricks monument on July 1. He will then make a tour of the state and continue his travels, perhaps to the Pacific coast. It is rather too early to start a Presidential boom for 1892, but the governor evidently believes in starting the ball before other candidates take the field.

The city council of Chicago has unanimously voted to petition Governor Fifer to call an extra session of the Illinois legislature to consider a constitutional amendment permitting the city of Chicago's bonded indebtedness to be increased $5,000,000, for the purpose of promoting the success of the world's fair. The governor will probably call the legislature together in a few days.

It was stated on the floor of the United States Senate Monday that one man controlled every foot of storage room in every cattle ship to Great Britain, so that there could be no possible competitor in the foreign cattle trade. Under such circumstances this cattle king can put prices of livestock as low as he pleases in the West, and carry the price of meat as high as he desires in the East. It was to protect this man and his associates that Congress undertook to put a duty on hides a short time since.

The farmers are waking up to the political situation. They begin to see that their embarrassments come largely from unwise legislation, and are striking out for reform. Whoever expects them longer to submit to taxation for the benefit of manufactures and trusts will be mistaken. They declare they have been made to carry the burden long enough and in several states are organizing for the coming political campaign. When once aroused to a full appreciation of the situation, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth among the politicians who thrive at their expense.

Princeton College is being generously treated by its friends. At the recent meeting of the trustees it was announced that Mrs. Susan Brown had offered to give $100,000 for a new dormitory; a member of the class of 1889 will give $10,000 with interest at 5 per cent. from June 1, to be payable to the trustees when they succeed in securing a man to give regular, systematic, practical and spiritual Bible study to the students. A "Friend of the College" has given $10,000 for scholarships. The new dormitory which is now receiving its finishing touches, and which is one of the finest buildings on the campus, costing between $75,000 and $100,000, is also due to the liberality of Mrs. Brown.

It is reported from Boston that Captain Nathan Appleton will make a strong run for the Republican nomination for Congress to succeed General Banks. The district includes several of the most high toned wards of Boston, the cities of Cambridge, Somerville, Waltham and Woburn and the towns of Arlington, Belmont, Burlington, Lexington and Watertown. Captain Appleton is generally regarded as a strong candidate in this district, where the colored vote is of considerable consequence. His interest in and his devotion to their cause as volunteer soldiers in the war of the Rebellion will make him a prime favorite with that class of voters, and with all classes he would have a strong political backing. In his address on Decoration day before the Robert A. Bell colored Post, G. A. R., he made a stirring appeal to their sympathies and practically opened the campaign.

Messrs. Plumb, Sherman, Teller, Blair and Call were the participants in yesterday's debate on the silver question in the Senate, and Mr. Eustis gave notice that he would speak today and Mr. Evarts tomorrow. Conference reports on the bill for a public building at New London, Conn., fixing the cost at $75,000, and on the bill to secure a site for the city postoffice of Washington, the cost not to exceed $800,000, were presented and agreed to. In the House the conference report on the bill appropriating $75,000 for the relief of A. H. Emery was rejected, and the former vote insisted upon. A Senate bill was passed changing the present system of drawback on exported beer and fermented liquors, and permitting their exportation in bond, in the same manner as distilled spirits are now handled, and of a Senate bill for the relief of Hyland C. Kirk and others, assignees of Addison C. Fletcher, patentee of a cancelling stamp, was laid on the table. The postoffice appropriation bill was considered in committee of the whole, reported to the House and passed without objection.

Ex-Alderman John O'Neil, one of the few members of the famous boodle aldermen of New York who was sent to state prison for his connection with that famous steal, was indicted for agreeing to accept a bribe, and in January, 1887, was sentenced to prison for four and a half years and to pay a fine of $2,000. By good conduct he has reduced his term by one year, two months and fifteen days, and his term of imprisonment will be completed on Sunday next. The fine of $2,000 was still held over him, and, being unable to pay this fine, if compelled to serve a day for every dollar he would not be released until December 10, 1895. During his imprisonment he has supported his family by his own exertions and his wife and children are in great need. Judge Bartlett on Monday considered the case and, feeling that the ex-alderman had already suffered enough, directed that the fine be remitted and the prisoner released on Saturday. It seems a travesty of justice that the man who did not receive a bribe should suffer, while those who make themselves rich by illegal means are allowed to enjoy the full benefits of their ill-gotten gains.

NO CLEAN SWEEP.

The Democrats, who believe that "to the victors belong the spoils," are not fully satisfied with the situation of affairs in this state. Up to this time very few changes have been made among the office-holders. The four cities still have postmasters who were appointed by Grover Cleveland, though one, at least, is anxious to get out and has asked to be relieved. Most of the other official positions are yet filled by Democrats and no word comes from Washington looking to a change in the near future. The candidates for places that were expected to be vacant are growing weary with waiting. They have danced attendance before the President, the Senators and the Congressmen until patience has ceased to be a virtue; they have begged, prayed and threatened, and yet the political sky gives no sign of coming rain. Pilgrimages to Washington appear to produce no effect and the hopes so long deferred make the hearts of the hitherto faithful workers sick. The new broom in this case not only fails to make a clean sweep but it does not sweep at all.

WANTED, A CITY HALL.

Newport is not alone in its "want" of a new city hall. We clip the following from the Pawtucket Times, which shows that, bad off as we are, Pawtucket is even worse:—

The city of Woonsocket is quick to act. Having secured the necessary legislation for building a city hall, she is actively engaged in the preliminary work of arranging for its erection. The city of Pawtucket might emulate the activity of Woonsocket in this matter. The building which now passes for a city hall has long outlived its usefulness. Its capacity is that of a one-horse city, whereas Pawtucket is next to Providence in importance. The present city hall is a cramped affair that does not furnish the necessary facilities for the city government. The hall for the common council is just about large enough to contain about twenty common-sized men, with a little space for the public in which twenty persons might find standing room. The aldermen are packed away in a small, back room which is so crowded when five aldermen and the mayor are in it that the representatives of the press have to take the proceedings standing. There isn't an inch of room for the public when the aldermen are in session in this little sideroom. Let us have a city hall.

NEWPORT EXCURSIONISTS.

Newport has never taken kindly to large bodies of excursionists, and so has made but slight provision for them when they put in an exceptional appearance. And in return the city has never been a popular resort for the class referred to, nor is it likely to become such. Still, there are many people residing inland who take pleasure in occasional trips to "The Queen of Watering Places," and the people of Newport are always glad to see them. To the credit of such as have come from time to time it may be said that the excursionists have usually been so orderly and well behaved as to give little occasion for offense even to the most fastidious.

There is a general impression that the number of excursionists last summer was much greater than ever before, but this is without foundation in fact. Most of those transient visitors come on the Continental steamboats, and the books of that company for 1889 do not show such an increase over previous seasons as has been popularly supposed. The Old Colony railroad had less than half a dozen excursion days during the entire summer, and there were absolutely less special trips to the town from other cities than in most previous years. And so while the exact figures cannot be given it can easily be established that the last season's excursionists did not exceed in number, and probably did not equal, those of several previous years.

Our attention was called to this matter by a sentence in the carefully written and evidently well considered communication concerning street railroad affairs, signed "Citizen," which appeared in the Daily News of Monday last. The writer of that article estimates that fully four-fifths of the people carried to the beach in summer are excursionists, and this estimate is in keeping with the somewhat general impression already referred to. It has often been said that the street railway is dependent on these transient visitors for its success and that to encourage and accommodate that class the road was built. It may be well to consider a few facts in this connection. The largest number of people carried on the cars in one day is put down in round numbers as 10,000. It was on Sunday at the height of the season last year when all the circumstances invited the people abroad. Now, it is known that the number of excursionists to Newport on that day who could possibly have gone in the cars did not exceed fifteen hundred, which, allowing that every one made two trips over the road, would credit seven thousand passages to the people of Newport. In other words 1,500 excursionists rode on the cars that day and 3,500 residents of the city proper. And so it was on every day when there was a crowd at the beach that the bulk of travel was on the part of our own people.

The figures for this summer, so far as the season is advanced, go to show that the people of Newport are the principal customers of the railroad company, both on week days and Sundays. On the first Sunday in June 1,000 people, all Newporters, rode in the street cars. There were no excursionists in the city on that day, either by steamboats or cars. Last Sunday there were again about 4,000 passages reported, and less than 300 of these were of people from out of the city. With such facts before us, it is evident that the blame of Sunday excursions to the beach does not fall so much on strangers as upon our citizens.

This is still further seen in the fact that last Sunday of the 4,000 trips recorded less than 1,500 went to the beach at all, leaving 2,500 to our home population on the Broadway line alone. The cars were well filled all the day, and absolutely crowded at the hours when special cars were run for the convenience of church-goers.

It will be seen by such facts as these that the street cars are largely used by our home population and that the excursionists do not constitute any such proportion of the patrons of the road as has been supposed. The occasions must have been very rare indeed, if they have existed at all, when for a single day last season or this the excursionists have made up one-half the number who have traveled in these cars, and it will be made clear to anyone in possession of the facts and figures that taking the year together the excursionists who ride do not exceed one-tenth of the total number.

OSCAR WILDE'S NEW STORY.

Mr. Oscar Wilde, the apostle of beauty, has written for the July number of Lippincott's Magazine a novel, or romance (it partakes of the qualities of both), which everybody will want to read. It is a story strange in conception, strong in interest, and fitted with a tragic and ghastly climax. For the rest, it is likely to occasion much discussion; for, like many stories of its class, it is open to more than one interpretation; and there are doubtless critics who will deny that it has any meaning at all. It is, at all events, a salutary departure from the ordinary English novel, with the hero and heroine of different social stations, the predatory black sheep, the curate, the settlements and society. Mr. Wilde, as we all know, is a gentleman of an original and audacious turn of mind, and the commonplace is scarcely possible to him. Besides, his advocacy of novel ideas in life, art, dress and demeanor have led us to expect surprising things from him; and in this literary age it is agreed that a man may best show the best there is in him by writing a book. The public will read Mr. Wilde's story, not only for the story itself, but in the hope of finding in it some compact and final statement of his theories of life and manners. They will be satisfied in some respects and dissatisfied in others; but not many will deny that the book is a remarkable one, and would attract attention even had it appeared without the author's name on the title page.

"The Picture of Dorian Gray" begins to show its quality in the opening pages. Mr. Wilde's writing has what is called "color"—the quality that forms the mainstay of many of Ouida's works—and it appears in the sensuous descriptions of nature, and of the decorations and environment of the artistic life. The general aspect of the characters, and the tenor of their conversation, remind one a little of "Vivian Gray" and a little of "Pelham;" but the resemblance does not go far; Mr. Wilde's objects and philosophy are different from those of either Disraeli or Bulwer. Meanwhile, his talent for aphorisms and epigrams may fairly be compared with theirs; some of his clever sayings are more than clever; they show real insight and a comprehensive grasp.—[Julian Hawthorne.

THE FASCINATIONS OF JAPAN.

The empire of Japan seems to exercise an irresistible fascination upon its visitors. Many Americans as well as Englishmen who have stopped at Tokio, Yokohama and sundry other cities of the Japanese land have been so delighted with the natural beauties of the country, the charm of its life, the rare courtesy and gentleness of its people, that they have chosen to remain there the greater part if not the whole of the remainder of their natural existence. It is well known that Sir Edwin Arnold, since his arrival in the dominion of the Japs, has been so pleased with his experience among them that he is loath to return to the rush and crush of London living, the wear and tear of his editorial duties on the London Telegraph, where he once was so fond of writing articles a yard long in eulogy of Lord Salisbury or in scholarly denunciation of Mr. Gladstone. He finds the luxuriant ease of Japanese living, the quiet habits of the people and their simple amusements too delightful to be enjoyed only for a few weeks. Consequently, instead of deserting the hospitable shades of Tokio after a short sojourn, as he had planned before he arrived within its pleasant territories, he has continued to abide there for several months, and it is said that in moments of Lethean enjoyment he has been known to forswear thinking of his friends in the English isle and threaten to linger in the perfume-laden atmosphere of the East forever.—[Boston Traveller.

Dyspepsia
Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels.

Distress After Eating
Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind.

Sick Headache
"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business, painting. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."
GEORGE A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

"IT'S THE GREATEST THING I EVER SAW."

Thousands of people have said so. It's a fact. Nothing in the world will kill every foul smell so quickly and permanently as

OZONOS
DISINFECTANT.

This is the season when Ozonos is a necessity in every family. The deadly fevers are caused by impure air arising from foul drains, waste pipes, sinks, cesspools, etc., etc. Don't delay. Apply Ozonos to every suspicious spot.

It is so economical all can afford to use it. No tidy housekeeper should do her cleaning without it. It is absolutely harmless, non-poisonous and odorless.

One bottle, 50c., diluted, makes twenty-five to one hundred gallons. All druggists and grocers. Send for circular.

Shaker Extract of Roots,
(Seigel's Syrup) CURES Dyspepsia.

THE THOUGHT IT WAS A HUMBUG.

Nine years ago I suffered from indigestion and dyspepsia; had heartburn and palpitation. No food would stay on my stomach; tried many so-called remedies without effect. Received a Shaker almanac and read it. I said, Here's another humbug! I was wrong for once. Bought a bottle of Shaker Extract of Roots in Columbia, Tenn. Then another and another. After the third bottle I was well; never been sick since. This is a medicine to tie to—to trust in. It is not a patent medicine nor a King Cureall. It cures dyspepsia and indigestion and that is at the bottom of most diseases. I would as soon be without money as without "Shaker."

W. J. POWERS.

Hearyville, Tenn., Feb 7, 1890.

Nine-tenths of all diseases arise from poisons carried by the blood to various organs and parts of the body; and the blood is poisoned by undigested food in the stomach and intestines. Shaker Extract of Roots purifies the blood by curing indigestion and dyspepsia. Price 60 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists and by

The Morning's News.

The Republican members of the House held another caucus last evening on the subject of a national election law. After discussing the two bills now before the House, Messrs. Rowell and Lodge were instructed to formulate a compromise bill. Its features will be an enlargement of the supervisory system, so that the supervisors shall participate in registration, voting and canvassing. To carry out fully the national idea, the supervisors' returns are to be prima facie evidence of the right of a member to his seat and to prevail in making up the roll of the House. In cases of conflicting returns, the certificates of the state canvassers may be used to allow the House to form its judgment of the qualifications of the contestant. Another caucus will soon be called to formally adopt the proposed measure and provide for its speedy consideration by the House.

The Republican Senators in caucus last evening selected a successor to W. P. Canaday, sergeant-at-arms, who resigned some time ago, to take effect June 30. There were forty-one Senators present, and eight candidates were presented for their votes—Messrs. Beade of Maine, Byington of Connecticut, Bailey of Pennsylvania, Dunn of Delaware, Swords of Iowa, Reed of Minnesota, Valentine of Nebraska, and Wilson of Montana. On the first ballot Bailey led with 13 votes. On the second ballot, Valentine was nominated, receiving 23 of the 41 votes cast. E. F. Valentine is a lawyer at West Point, Neb., about 60 years of age. He served three terms in Congress from that state, retiring in 1885. Valentine's nomination is a bitter defeat for Senator Quay.

Yesterday afternoon the Brown base ball team played Yale in one of the most interesting and exciting games that has ever been played on the university grounds in Providence. Each side had out its best teams. Stagg pitched for the Yales, but was batted to the tune of fourteen hits and sixteen bases. Woodcock pitched for Brown and had ten hits with a total of thirteen bases made off him. The game was tied at the end of the ninth inning and the Browns won in the tenth, making the score 9 to 8.

The competition for the individual general athletic championship came off yesterday afternoon on the grounds of the Staten Island Athletic Club. E. G. Abbott, Corinthian A. C.; M. O'Sullivan, Pastime A. C.; Alex. Jordan, New York A. C., and J. C. Devereaux, M. A. C., were the only contestants. Abbott and Devereaux were soon disqualified, and at the close of the contests Jordan was declared the champion amateur athlete of the United States, having scored forty one points to O'Sullivan's thirty.

Yesterday's base ball games resulted as follows:—

Players' League. At Brooklyn—Brooklyn, 5; Boston, 2. At Buffalo—Buffalo, 8; Cleveland, 1. At Philadelphia—Philadelphia, 3; New York, 2. At Pittsburg—Pittsburg, 10; Chicago, 4.

National League. At Brooklyn—Brooklyn, 8; Boston, 4. At Cincinnati—Cincinnati, 9; Pittsburg, 2. At Chicago—Chicago, 5; Cleveland, 4. At Philadelphia—Philadelphia, 6; New York, 1.

The protracted negotiations between the Senate and House respecting the differences arising from conflicting amendments to the Morrill pension bill were brought to a successful conclusion yesterday by a final agreement of the conferees. By the terms of the agreement, the Senate recedes from its insistence upon the dependent pension feature, and the House agrees to drop the service pension provision, leaving the bill a disability pension bill.

Mlle. Raffalovitch, who will become the bride of William O'Brien today, has received a large number of wedding gifts, some of which are very beautiful and costly. The admirers of herself and Mr. O'Brien among the ladies of Dublin have presented her with an elaborate set of bed and table linen of the finest quality, and the ladies of Cork and Kenmare have sent exquisite specimens of lace work.

The naval appropriations bill is still in conference. It is said that difficulty to agree is experienced over the provisions for the unopened navy yards. The chiefs of naval bureaus are already anxious lest the bill fail of passage before July 1. If the bill does not come up for final action before the end of the fiscal year, now three weeks hence, the men at work in the navy yards will be discharged.

Harry McBride was badly punished in a brutal glove fight with Frank Larue at the Golden Gate Athletic Club, in San Francisco, Monday evening, and died yesterday morning. Larue is under arrest for murder, and Secretary Jamieson of the club, Frank Jones, a director, and Joe Bowers, Tim McGrath and John Joell, who seconded the contestants in the fight, as accessories to murder.

The formal presentation of the tract of land recently given to Harvard College for athletic purposes by Henry L. Higginson was made in Sever Hall, Cambridge, last evening. President Eliot read the letter of presentation together with its accompanying conditions, and was followed by Mr. Higginson in a long and interesting address, in which he outlined his motives in making the gift.

The Dominion government has decided to advertise in the leading English papers for tenders for a fast Atlantic steamship service. The advertisement will call for a minimum average speed of eighteen knots per hour, from port to port, a French port being the starting point on the other side, the vessel to call at either Southampton or Plymouth, as may be hereafter agreed upon.

Senator Dawes yesterday introduced in the Senate a bill appropriating $7,752,078 to pay the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians in settlement of the claim which they have against the government for certain lands ceded in trust by the treaty of 1866, between the government and these Indians.

The only apparent damage sustained by the Anchor Line steamship City of Rome, which struck Fastnet rock early last Sunday morning while bound from New York for Liverpool, is the starting of several of the plates on her forefoot, and the straining of her bow above the water line.

The Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday passed to be engrossed the senate bill providing for the abolition of grade crossings. The senate passed to be engrossed the house bill to prevent stock gambling in bucket shops.

The Freisinnige Zeitung, a Berlin newspaper, says that the Emperor has refused to assent to the suggestion that Prince Bismarck be prosecuted for divulging state secrets.

BRIGGS'

Headache Troches

FOR

SICK HEADACHE

—IN ITS—

Nervous, Bilious or Congestive Forms.

TESTIMONIAL.

L. R. BROWN, M. D.,
23 West Jersey St.,
ELIZABETH, N. J., June 28, 1889.

This is to certify that I have used for some months, with much satisfaction, the combination of remedies for Headache known as Briggs' Headache Troches. The remedy cures more headaches, especially such as affect Nervous Women, than anything I am acquainted with, and if this certificate will be the means of bringing it to the favorable attention of sufferers from that trouble, I shall feel that I have done them a service.

THE FALLOW FIELD.

The sun comes up and the sun goes down;
The night mist shroudeth the sleeping town;
But if it be dark or if it be day,
If the tempests beat or the breezes play,
Still here on this upland slope I lie,
Looking up to the changeful sky.

Naught am I but a fallow field;
Never a crop my acres yield.
Over the wall at my right hand
Stately and green the cornblades stand,
And I hear at my left the flying feet
Of the winds that rustle the bending wheat.

Often while yet the morn is red
I list for our master's eager tread.
He smiles at the young corn's towering height,
He knows the wheat is a goodly sight,
But he glances not at the fallow field
Whose idle acres no wealth may yield.

Sometimes the shout of the harvesters
The sleeping pulse of my being stirs,
And as one in a dream I seem to feel
The sweep and the rush of the swinging steel,
Or I catch the sound of the gay refrain
As they heap their wains with the golden grain.

Yet, O my neighbors, be not too proud,
Though on every tongue your praise is loud.
Our mother Nature is kind to me,
And I am beloved by bird and bee,
And never a child that passes by
But turns upon me a grateful eye.

Over my head the skies are blue;
I have my share of the rain and dew;
I bask like you in a summer sun
When the long, bright days pass one by one,
And calm as yours is my sweet repose
Wrapped in the warmth of the winter snows.

For little our loving mother cares
Which the corn or the daisy bears,
Which is rich with the ripening wheat,
Which with the violet's breath is sweet,
Which is red with the clover bloom,
Or which for the wild sweet-fern makes room.

Useless under the summer sky
Year after year men say I lie,
Little they know what strength of mine
I give to the trailing blackberry vine;
Little they know how the wild grape grows,
Or how my life blood flushes the rose.

Little they think of the cups I fill
For the mosses creeping under the hill;
Little they think of the feast I spread
For the wild, wee creatures that must be fed—
Squirrel and butterfly, bird and bee,
And the creeping things that no eye may see.

Lord of the harvest, Thou dost know
How the summers and winters go.
Never a ship sails east or west
Laden with treasures at my behest;
Yet my being thrills to the voice of God
When I give my gold to the golden rod.

—Julia C. R. Dorr.

FANCIES.

When a man goes to live in the top of a six-story flat it is all up with him.—[Binghamton Republican.

"That's a queer thing about a baby," says "He cries himself asleep and everybody else awake."—[Harper's Bazar.

"This egg, madame," said the professor, with asperity, "is not fresh." "Sir," said the landlady, graciously, "it was laid just one week after you made your last payment."

Husband—Am I never to have my own way. Wife—Certainly, my dove; when we are both agreed you can have your way, and when we differ I'll have mine.—[Der Ulk.

The agricultural college professors have figured it out that two little sparrows in ten years will produce a progeny of 275,716,983,698 birds. Well, that isn't more than a bird or two out of the way at most.

"I will be a sister to you," she said. "No," he replied, sadly; "I've got one sister who wears my neckties, borrows car fare, loses my hairbrush, puts tidies all over the furniture in my room, and expects me to take her to the theatre twice a week. I think I'll go out into the world and forget you."

PERSONALS.

....De Lesseps is in a precarious state of health and it is feared that he will not long survive.

....Postmaster General Wanamaker's life and accident insurance now amounts to $1,300,000, the largest insurance carried by any individual in the world.

....Secretary of War Proctor, who is at Rutland, Vt., on a visit to his family, will attend the graduating exercises at West Point Military Academy, Thursday next.

....General Sickles will address the alumni of the University of the City of New York at their 58th anniversary reunion next Friday evening. He is an alumnus of forty years ago.

....Governor Pennoyer, who has just been re-elected governor of Oregon, is a New Yorker by birth, and comes of old New England ancestry. He has been a resident of Oregon since 1852.

....Archduchess Valerie, the Emperor's youngest daughter, and her bridegroom, Archduke Franze Salvadore, will solemnly renounce their rights to the throne of Austria and Hungary on the 16th inst.

....Segonld A. Qual, a Norwegian, died recently in Eau Claire, Wis., leaving $1,000,000 for the establishment of a hospital at Madison for persons crippled and deformed from birth. He made his fortune in timber lands in Wisconsin.

....Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, the well known novelist, lives a hermit sort of life on the summit of the Storm King Mountain on the Hudson. She goes to Europe soon to gather material for a new novel which will deal with the subject of Calvinism.

....Major Pond has signed a contract with H. M. Stanley for fifty lectures to be delivered in the United States. For the entire course Stanley will receive $50,000, getting at the rate of $2,500 in New York and other large cities, and $1,000 each in the smaller ones. The first lecture will be given at the New York Metropolitan Opera House, November 11.

....Empress Frederick's visit to Greece is being looked forward to with much interest by the population, as she has signified her intention of traveling all through Hellas. It is also thought that the Crown Prince and Princess of Greece will accompany her on this tour, more especially as the Prince has never visited a large part of the country through which the Empress will pass.

....The Duke of Seville, who has come over to Cuba as a provincial governor on a salary of $2,500 yearly, is in a tight place. The Queen Regent of Spain has declined to pay any of the debts which he has incurred during his banishment; and he has left his Grand Cross of the Saint Hubert of Bavaria—the oldest order that there is—as a gage in the hands of his French creditors for the payment of what he owes them by installments.

....Public attention in Paris has been called to Victor Hugo by the quiet celebration on May 22 of the fifth anniversary of his death. A commission was appointed soon after Hugo's death to raise funds, and in the first moments of enthusiasm the subscriptions promptly reached the figure of 100,000 francs. Most of the subscribers belonged to the humblest classes, and the majority of the offerings did not go above 50 centimes, or 10 cents. But the enthusiasm cooled no less promptly than it had warmed up, and the fund has not increased. The sculptor, Rodin, however, is hard at work upon the monument to be raised over Hugo's grave in the Pantheon.

—According to a cable despatch from London Miss Willing of Philadelphia emphatically denies that she is engaged to marry Mr. John Jacob Astor.

—Mr. P. N. Martin, who sprained his knee in the ball game Saturday, is able to be about, but has to use a cane. His injury was not a serious one.

—Mrs. Elliot F. Shepard of New York is visiting her brother, Mr. F. W. Vanderbilt. Mrs. Shepard and her daughter came here to attend the Wallach-Barger wedding.

—Mrs. Pemberton Hincks and daughter and Miss Bertha Pemberton have sailed for Europe. The singing of these ladies at Newport last season will be pleasingly recalled.

—Mr. Mason will retain his place as organist at the Thames-street Church and will also be the organist at the Channing Church, playing at the Channing in the morning and at Thames street in the afternoon.

—Miss Marie Havemeyer, daughter of Mr. Theo. A. Havemeyer, is visiting Mrs. Edward T. Potter. Miss Havemeyer's name was omitted from the list of maids of honor at the Wallach-Barger wedding yesterday.

—The coach "Rocket" left Paris for St. Germain Monday with a party of New Yorkers, the guests of Consul General Rathbone. Mr. Henry Ridgway handled the ribbons, and the coach was "topped" by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Whitney, Colonel Payne, Mr. and Mrs. George Tiffany, Miss McCoudray, Mr. and Mrs. Barney, Mrs. Randolph, Mr. Robert Hargous and Mr. W. K. Thorn.

—The engagement of Mr. Benjamin Weaver to Miss Whipple, daughter of Mr. John Whipple, is announced.

—Mr. Reuben Henderson, who was kicked by his horse on Spring street recently, has so far recovered that he hopes to be out in a couple of weeks. It is now apparent that his injury was simply the dislocation of the small bone in the kneepan.

—Among the arrivals at the Perry House are Miss Bessie Barton and Martin M. Simmons of Boston, Augustus F. Cox of Portland, Stephen Wood and wife of New York, Charles Kelley of New Bedford and Mrs. H. O. Clarke and family of Brooklyn.

—The boys at the Training Station are busily engaged in artillery and battalion drill on the island, preparatory to the detachment of those assigned to the two cruising vessels. Governor Davis and staff are expected at the island in a few days to inspect the station.

—The Evangelistic Association of New England will hold a conference in this city Thursday, June 26, at which Rev. S. Hartwell Pratt, Rev. George C. Needham, Rev. R. S. Underwood, Rev. N. H. Harriman and Rev. E. E. Davidson, evangelists, are expected to deliver addresses.

—Mr. Frank L. Powell has secured the agency for the toilet articles made by the London Bazar Company, and will keep in stock a full line of its productions. His windows, which are now arranged with a large display of the goods, attract much attention. A specialty is made of the Plantu Beatrice for the complexion, which is warranted harmless. In addition to this there are balms, cosmetics, soaps, powders and creams to preserve the skin against the ravages of time and care and revive its beauty, if once it has gone.

—The telephone pole in front of the Yardley cottage, on Rhode Island avenue, left at the time the others were cut because of some wires crossing the roof of the house and which by the fall of the pole would have damaged the roof, was yesterday afternoon cut down and removed, the work being evidently done with little hurry, the wires being carefully wrapped round the next pole and the ends bent and driven into the pole, and secured so as not to interfere with passers-by.

—The Fall River papers give considerable space to the reception accorded Newport Conclave, Knights of Sherwood Forest, by King Philip Conclave of that city in Puritan Hall on Monday evening. The party arrived about 9 o'clock, the ladies of the party going direct to the hall, while the knights made a short street parade. The hall was tastefully decorated and was full of Sir Knights and their lady friends, nearly one hundred knights in uniform taking part in the grand march. Supper, at which short speeches were made, was served in the hall and about five hundred, including a number of visitors from New Bedford, partook of it. Dancing followed till the Newport delegation left for its train. The reception, besides being a red letter one in the history of the Fall River conclave, will be equally bright in the memory of the Newport knights, who have always been more than well treated by their Fall River brothers.

DEDICATION OF A CHAPEL.

The branch, or mission, chapel of the First Baptist Church, lately completed on the corner of Tilley avenue and Gibbs street, was dedicated last evening, in the presence of a congregation that filled every bit of room inside and extended beyond the door. The walls were tastefully dressed with bunches of flowers, and the reading desk rose out of a handsome floral bank, which pleasingly enlivened that end of the chapel. Seated on the platform were Rev. E. P. Tuller of the First, Rev. Dr. Randolph of the Central and Rev. S. W. Stevens of the Second Baptist churches, Rev. S. L. Carr and Chaplain Rose. The service opened with an organ voluntary by Miss Gardner, organist of the First Baptist Church, and a choir consisting of Misses Buchanan and Bailey and Messrs. Holland and Tilley sang. Then followed invocation by Rev. S. L. Carr, hymns, reading of the Scriptures.

Rev. E. P. Tuller then read the report of the construction of the chapel, showing that the committee, appointed nearly a year ago and consisting of Rev. E. P. Tuller, D. A. Patt, Frank S. Barker, H. C. Tilley and Simeon Hazard, had received from various sources $1,016.50, and expended $1,605.57, and that the chapel and all its furnishings were paid for. Mr. Patt was a sub-committee on the construction, and did the work. The figures given above do not represent the actual cost of the building, as many things were contributed. Among these were the decorations by W. E. B. Hayman and a considerable portion of the painting, both labor and stock, by Thomas Blacklock. Of the furnishings the reading desk is the gift of George Nason; the pulpit chairs, of Mrs. Chase's Sunday school class; the Bible of Mrs. Thomas Potter; the lamps, of the Cheer Up Club of the First Baptist Church; the organ, of the Sunday school of the same church, and the carpets, shades and other materials, of Mrs. J. M. Popple and Mrs. Sarah Gould.

After the report, Rev. Dr. Randolph spoke, taking as his text Psalms LXXVIII:6, "That the generation to come might know these, even the children which should be born, who should arise and declare them to their children." He spoke of the necessity of impressing Christian truth upon the minds of the young, since when people grow older they pay less attention to preaching and teaching and become gospel hardened. The story of the Bible is an old one, yet ever fresh to young minds, to whom it should be expounded. He spoke of the universal opinion of the leading minds of the world, that the Sunday school was the foundation of the church and should be properly cared for. The children of the present day were receiving more secular knowledge than those of any previous generations had, but he feared their knowledge of the Word of God was less. He told of the manner in which the Jews kept alive the story of the deliverance from Egypt, and said the energy shown and the successful results obtained by the Jews and Catholics in instructing the children in the principles of their faiths should be a guide to Protestants, who were far behind in this necessary work.

Chaplain Rose gave the dedicatory prayer, asking all to unite with him in dedicating the building to the service of God.

Rev. S. W. Stevens of the Second Baptist Church followed with an excellent address on mission and branch schools. The former, he said, were established by a combination of churches placed in some centre of population not reached by any of the churches, and supported by all. A branch school was the work of a single church, and nearly all brought into the church through its work would join that church. Both gave opportunities for work by active Christians of the parent churches, whose energies would, in a well-established church, lie dormant, and by bringing into connection with the church members a number of people with whom they had not been acquainted, thus deepening and broadening their views. The work in these schools was even harder than in the regular churches. It required an adaptability on the part of the teachers to meet the new and unusual conditions, an ability to understand the wants of the pupils, unaccustomed as they were to Christian surroundings; a thorough knowledge of the Bible, and an ability to impart that knowledge in a way to stir up the hearts of these young people. It was a mistake to think that any energetic Christian man would do for a teacher or superintendent of such a school. A man might be almost surely on the road to Heaven, yet wholly unfitted for the proper handling of such a school. Much depended on the teachers. If they showed the way, by generous contributions and by instilling proper enthusiasm into their pupils, a branch school could be made almost, if not quite self-supporting. If they were not able to enlist the sympathies of their scholars it would be a failure.

Rev. Mr. Tuller made the closing remarks, saying his attention was drawn to this section of the town on his arrival in this city. The mission was begun only after long and careful deliberation and prayer. God had been so generous to the undertaking, by supplying all the many little demands that arose, that it seemed that he must certainly favor the work, and under His protection the chapel could not fail to be even a greater success than its founders imagined. The work on it had been done, almost exclusively by his church, and as pastor he was proud of the good showing made by his people.

Dr. Randolph then pronounced the benediction.

The chapel is a plain yet substantial-looking building, 24 by 36 feet, with a portico on the south side, and will seat about 125. It is substantially, though plainly, fitted inside, the walls, extending to the peak, being painted. The only inscription on the walls is "Holiness to the Lord" in the rear of the pulpit or reading desk. Services will be held every Tuesday evening at 7.45 and Sunday school every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The officers of the church are:—

Sunday School Superintendent—William A. Hildreth.
Secretary and Treasurer—Simeon Hazard.
Librarian—W. I. Goddard.
Organist—Mrs. J. M. Popple.
Sexton—Thomas J. Potter.

A PRESENTATION TO MRS. COMMANDER HIGGINSON.

This morning four boy gun captains from the Naval Training Station, W. H. Burns, J. Wesley, R. J. O'Hara and J. W. Dillenback, called upon Mrs. Commander Higginson, at her cottage on Kay street, and presented to her a very pretty memento, enclosed in a handsome case of green velvet, and consisting of a bowl and spoon of solid silver, lined with gold, beautifully ornamented with bas relief groups of dolphins and other fish struggling in a net. On the pieces were the following inscriptions:—

Presented to Mrs. Commander J. Higginson with the affectionate regards of the gun captains and buglers of the class of 1880 naval apprentices."

The presentation was made by Boy Gun Captain Burns, who read the following address:—

MY DEAR MRS. HIGGINSON:—In behalf of the gun captains and buglers of the present class of naval apprentices, we beg to present to you this token of our appreciation of the many acts of kindness we have individually received from you, and for the faithful services you have so generously accorded to us in words of encouragement and helpfulness in the Sabbath school of the station.

We will not attempt to conceal the fact that it was our strong desire, in some practical way, to have shown our love for our dear commander, your husband. Coming directly from homes where we have been accustomed to the mild and tender counsels and reproofs of mother and sister, we had expected that our experience in the navy would be singularly harsh, rigid and stern. On the contrary, however, we have found in Commander Higginson one much more like a father than a captain. It has seemed to us that in his concern for our welfare he has exhausted every proper method whereby we could be advanced in our calling, protected in our moral and physical health, and made contented and happy in our chosen profession.

Fully aware that in the future we can never hope to be so fortunate as to be under the command of one so kindly and lovingly disposed toward us as he has been, we have coveted the pleasure of telling him in some substantial way how much we owe to him, how truly we love him and how lifelong will be our recollections of his noble character. From doing this we are precluded by the laws of the navy, to which it is our duty cheerfully to submit.

We are not stopped, however, from the pleasure of expressing to you these sentiments, and will be grateful if you will say to him, in words that you so readily can select, and with tender emotions which you do not have to simulate, how unspeakably "his boys" love him and with what sorrow they part from him.

Wherever we go and under whatsoever circumstances we meet, either with success or adversities, we shall be stimulated to the show of manliness and uprightness by the thought that the eyes and thoughts of our dear commander follow us, and we have the prayers and regards of our dear Mrs. Higginson as well, and we beg you, as often as you may use this little piece of silver and gold, that you will believe that in our young hearts beat pulsations true and steady of loyalty to you, which even death itself can never destroy.

The presentation was a genuine surprise to the recipient, who was overcome by this token of the good feeling of the apprentice boys. She assured the representatives that she and Commander Higginson would treasure their gift above everything in Commander Higginson's long naval experience, and that the first use to which their present would be put would be on Saturday afternoon, when she invited all the members of the class to attend a reception in their honor.

During her stay in this city Mrs. Higginson has been always the firm friend of the lads attached to the station, and in many ways has shown, as a woman only can show, her interest in the many little details that go to make up their daily life. She was especially active during the sickness of last year, and those who then received the many little favors she bestowed on the sick will always have a warm place in their hearts for the wife of their commandant. The presentation was very quietly managed by the boys, and Commander Higginson was unaware of what was done till he reached his house this afternoon.

THE NEW YORK YACHT CLUB'S REGATTA.

The forty-fifth annual regatta of the New York Yacht Club will be held on Thursday, June 19, off New York. There will be prizes given in each of twelve classes under the following classification:—For schooners 1, all over 100 feet; 2, between 90 and 100 feet; 3, between 80 and 90 feet; 4, between 70 and 80 feet, and 5, all of 70 feet and under. For sloops:—1, all over 80 feet; 2, between 70 and 80 feet; 3, between 61 and 70 feet; 4, between 53 and 61 feet; 5, between 46 and 53 feet; 6, between 40 and 46 feet, and 7, all of 40 feet and under. At least two yachts must start in each class, except first class sloops and schooners, or no prize shall be awarded in that class. A second prize will be given in each class when four or more start. A special prize for first class keel schooners will be given if there be more than two starters, but no yacht shall receive two prizes.

Any yacht launched prior to June 20, 1888, exceeding the higher limit in any class by not over the fraction of a foot, shall be included in that class. Any yacht when alone in her class can sail in the class above, by assuming her load water line length to be that marking the lower limit of such class, and rating her for time allowance under racing rule V.

The regatta will be sailed according to the racing rules of the club, and under its time allowances. The start will be off buoy 15 (Lower bay), and the preparatory signal will be made at 11 A. M., wind and weather permitting. There will be two courses, one for sloops of classes 6 and 7, and the second for all other yachts. The latter will be as follows:—Start across an imaginary line drawn from the judges' boat anchored to the east of buoy No. 15, and about two cables' length from it, to buoy No. 10, near Southwest Spit, passing to the south and west of it; thence south of buoy No. 8½, and north of buoy No. 5, off the point of Sandy Hook to Sandy Hook lightship, turning from the north and east, and returning over the same course. The other course will be the same, with the turning point at Scotland lightship instead of Sandy Hook. The approximate distance for the long course is 31½ nautical miles and for the short course, 25½ nautical miles.

A TEST CASE.

William Ormsby, a well-known liquor dealer, claims that the law compelling the closing of liquor places at 11 o'clock Saturday night is null and void—that it became so on and after the passing of the prohibitory amendment to the constitution. Believing that he was right and having a lawyer's advice he declined to close his place of business at the time supposed to be specified in the city ordinance which regulated the hours of closing, on the evenings of May 31 and June 7. After giving the matter considerable attention Chief Turner decided to run the risk and so swore out a warrant against Mr. Ormsby, who was arrested yesterday afternoon. Bail was furnished by Mr. William O. Greene, the amount being $50. The case will be heard before Judge Baker on Tuesday next. It is expected that the hearing will be an important one, and, should it be decided against Mr. Ormsby, the case will be carried to the higher courts. It will, in all respects, be a test case. Generally speaking all the liquor stores close at 11 o'clock and Mr. Ormsby does not, it is said, make a practice of keeping open after that hour.

THE CITY HALL.

To the Editor of the Daily News:—

The taxpaying citizens of Newport are called upon to vote one week from today on the proposition submitted by the City Council for the erection of a new city hall upon the block bounded by Touro street, Washington square and Park place, upon which is now located the Sheffield mansion, the Park House and Bousmaniere estate, at a cost not to exceed $200,000.

That there is need of a new city hall there can be no doubt. The present structure at the head of Long wharf is entirely inadequate for its purposes. In the five rooms of the building are located the mayor's office, board of aldermen's chamber, common council chamber, city clerk's office, city treasurer's office, the probate court room, the probate clerk's office, tax assessors' room, and the various committees are obliged to find room for their meetings wherever they can. The mayor occupies the aldermen's chamber and the collector of taxes has been obliged to find quarters outside the building on account of the increasing business of the city treasurer's office, which never was over large for one official. Aside from this the street commissioner, board of firewards and board of health are located in outside quarters and the city solicitor and many of the minor officials have no habitation at all. Besides this lack of room the offices on the lower floor of the building are not fit for a man to live in. The floors are damp and every year a considerable sum of money must be laid out for repairs, which are the greater because of the dampness. To one who has had any dealings with city officials, the need of a new building of some sort is very evident.

Having agreed upon the need of new quarters, the question of location for the proposed building is next to be considered. The committee reported in favor of the proposed site only after a thorough investigation of all places which could be secured. Of all those offered, the site at the head of Washington square seemed to possess advantages far in excess of all others. It was centrally located; at the head of the principal square in the city, in such a position as to be of easy approach from all sides, bordering on the street on three sides and facing the square on the west; and affording opportunities for architectural beauties which can be secured by no other available place in the city. It is indeed the ideal place for a city hall. It is only a short distance from Thames street, within a stone's throw of Spring street and Broadway, and nearer to Bellevue avenue than the present building. There need be no fear of spoiling the park on Washington square by the erection of a building at its head. A substantial granite building facing the park cannot fail to improve its appearance. It would be a conspicuous object from every side, and if located, as the committee planned, thirty feet to the westward of the site of the present building, it would allow the street in the rear to be widened and the park to be extended completely around the building.

Objections are raised by the lovers of the antique that a handsome modern building so close to the stately court house would detract from the latter's architectural beauty. No one admires the perfect architectural lines of the old State House more than the writer of this communication, but he is not afraid that the new building will so completely overshadow the old that the latter will be lost sight of. He firmly believes, moreover, that the State House possesses such pronounced beauties of its own that a handsome type of modern architecture near by would bring out more forcibly the excellent proportions of the old.

The proposed cost of the building will perhaps be considered by some citizens too much for our city. This sum includes not only the erection of the building, but for the purchase of the site as well, and allowing $40,000 for the purchase of the land and $10,000 for the purchase of plans, removal of old building and other incidentals, there will be $150,000 for the erection of the building. This is not an extravagant sum, when the building to be erected is to stand for decades a monument to the liberality of the people of this day. It will erect a building suitable for all the needs of the city and is ample for a handsome, commodious structure. It has been suggested that the plans of the Leathal schoolhouse, which, according to the general impression, cost only $30,000, might be improved to the extent of $20,000, and a suitable building be constructed for $50,000 for a city hall. In the first place, however, the building and lot cost $48,000, not including the various sets of plans which the city paid for and which were used in the finally adopted plan of the building. In the second place a schoolhouse is not a city hall by considerable, and $50,000, as suggested, would make a very poor apology for a well equipped city hall, with fire-proof vaults, office and committee rooms, assembly halls for aldermen and councilmen, closets and the many other necessary equipments. Newport cannot afford to erect a cheap building, and its financial condition is such that it would not be seriously hampered in paying off the debt of $200,000 in thirty, forty or fifty years. Woonsocket has asked for permission to expend $200,000 for the purchase of land alone for a city hall, and will Newport be behind her sister city?

The proposition which is to be voted upon is as follows:—

Shall the City Council be authorized to build a new city hall and to procure the site therefor by purchase or other legal means, all at an expense not exceeding two hundred thousand dollars, and the site to be the tract of land bounded north and east on Park place, south on Touro street and west on the park on Washington square?

It is true this does not give the contract price for the erection of the building, but it is as definite as the City Council could present. That body could not purchase plans and secure contracts until it was known where the location was to be or whether the people wished to have a building erected. The committee made a thorough examination of sites and presents the one, in its judgment, best adapted to the needs of the city. It is a noticeable fact that of the special committee four members, Aldermen Eddy and Burdick and Councilmen Scott and Austin, live south of Washington square, and only one, Councilman Barker, north of it. It is clear therefore that local prejudice had nothing to do with the selection and that the members used their best judgment in choosing for the good of the public. The City Council does not wish to build the city hall. Its members feel that their tenure of office is too short to warrant them in buying out plans for what they possibly cannot be responsible, at least officially, after next January. And it is understood to be the intention, if the proposition is approved, to put the construction of the building into the hands of a non-partisan commission composed of the best citizens of Newport, men upon whom their fellow-citizens can rely for honest work and supervision in the construction of the building. There need be no fear of the work exceeding the limit. The $200,000 is enough and with care the land may be purchased and the city hall erected without drawing one cent more from the pockets of the citizens or from the city treasury.

Should the proposition fail (I sincerely hope not), the erection of a new city hall will lapse for a year, and possibly for several years. The special committee and the City Council were sincere in giving the citizens what they considered the best possible proposition, and it is not likely that the same committee or the present council will be able to present another proposition this year at least; and the city must keep on paying rent for outside offices and repairing the present building, and at the same time cramping its officials in quarters far too small and really dangerous to health.

Let the people look at the pending question fairly and without personal prejudice. The city's interests alone are to be considered and no private individual should vote against the proposition which, if his individual preferences were not considered, he would frankly admit was the best for the city. It is a question of much importance and should be met squarely, with but one object in view, the greatest good for the greatest number, the greatest number in this case being the city.

CONGRESSIONAL TIMBER IN RHODE ISLAND.

(From the Providence Telegram.)

Although it seems a little like forcing the season, yet the Congressional campaign has already begun in this state, and about a dozen aspirants are in the field, with one county yet to hear from. There is no good reason why, with the steady growth of tariff reform principles, Rhode Island should not send two men to the next Congress who would represent the ideas and wishes of the state on this vital question. No one claims that the present delegation does this, except possibly Messrs. Arnold and Spooner themselves.

There is going to be some most energetic hustling for the nomination in both parties and in both districts, and of course every aspirant is already sharpening a long, gleaming knife for use on his rivals. From present indications there will be no end of fun before the campaign is over.

In 1888 Mr. Spooner's majority was about 1,400, Mr. Oscar Lapham getting nearly 9,000 votes. Governor Davis carried the district last April, so that the election of a Democratic Congressman from Providence is practically assured. This is conceded by many good Republican politicians. There will, doubtless, be three names before the Democratic convention in October—Mr. Augustus S. Miller, Mr. Oscar Lapham and Mr. Samuel R. Honey. If there are other possibilities they have thus far succeeded in concealing themselves from public view. Events during the summer will develop the relative strength of Mr. Miller and Mr. Lapham, either one of whom could carry the district, and would do honor to the state. As for Mr. Honey's candidacy, it is as yet in a rather nebulous condition. In fact, it was rumored at Newport that he had other and higher aspirations, and that a quiet little slate which was arranged stood something like this: —For United States Senator—Hon. Samuel R. Honey. For governor—Hon. Daniel R. Pond. For Congress, First district—Hon. Oscar Lapham.

Slates are sometimes broken, however, and it is within range of possibilities that this one may be, at least partially. Something might induce the affable ex-lieutenant governor to forego future Senatorial honors for the sake of a seat in the lower house of Congress. Two birds in the hand are always worth one in the bush. The next General Assembly to be elected will choose a successor to Senator Aldrich, and if the grand committee is Democratic here is a rich prize for someone. Mr. Honey may have quite a following in the nominating convention in October, and not even an experienced clairvoyant can predict the result. Anyhow, Mr. Spooner can paste this in his hat: "The next Congressman from the First district will be a Democrat.

Boss Brayton is great, and Ellery H. Wilson is his prophet—in the First district. But in well-informed circles it is the general opinion that the boss will not be able to wrest the nomination for Wilson away from Spooner. The latter wants to go back to Congress for another term and then he wants to get into that "restful place" where Senator Dixon now is. Like all narrow men who go to Congress, Spooner has been getting more and more narrow and more bitterly partisan with each succeeding term, but he is nevertheless strong with the soldier element, and that will, in all probability, secure him the renomination. He will not get it, however, without a struggle. Not only does Ellery H. Wilson think the May deal has been sufficiently forgotten to enable him to run with impunity, but the doughty little baker, ex-senator and ex-mayor of Newport, Robert S. Franklin, is also going to break lances with Spooner. All three of them want the honor of marching at the head of the Republican column to defeat next November. It doesn't matter which one gets it. But Franklin is really a good fellow, except for his politics, and his friends ought to shield him from the inevitable consequences of his temerity.

Unless all signs fail, ex-Congressman Charles H. Page of Scituate will go back to the seat in the House of Representatives to which he was twice elected, but which he held only one week. There are a good many folks over in the Second district who have not yet forgotten the outrage that was perpetrated upon him and upon the Democratic party in 1884. But then that isn't the first seat the Republicans have stolen. At the last election Mr. Arnold's majority was about 2,300. Tariff reform has made enough progress since then to overcome this number, and Mr. Page is in sympathy with the majority on the tariff.

Mayor Pond's name, it is said, will also be before the convention, and he's certain of Woonsocket anyhow. Whether he will develop formidable strength outside his own bailiwick remains to be seen. He, too, is all right on the tariff, but then a man has to have votes to get elected. If there are any dark horses to be trotted out at the convention, they are not yet visible to the naked eye.

It may seem like a ghastly joke to the Telegram readers, but it is nevertheless an undeniable fact, that Enos Lapham of Warwick will be the next Republican candidate for Congress in the Second district, and that self-respecting people will actually be asked to vote for him. Those who are not self-respecting will be purchased, as usual. Enos is Boss Brayton's man, not only because they are old cronies and lifelong friends, but because Enos has the sinews of war. Things have come to this pass in the party of high moral ideas, that a notorious briber, whose guilt has been proved beyond all doubt and who did not dare bring suits for libel against the newspapers that exposed him, is to be the Republican nominee for Congress. But Enos, realizing how his strength lies wholly in his pocketbook, is prodigal of that strength. "Individual effort" he calls it, and he will probably take care this time that no bargains are made in his stable.

Mr. Arnold, the genial nonentity who now misrepresents the district, would like to have another term or two, but the boss says no. Other aspirants are Senators Utter and Thornley and Representative Capron, any one of whom can be licked by Senator Page. Of the three, Senator Utter, in spite of having kicked over Brayton's traces so often and being regarded as rather refractory, would doubtless poll the most votes. He is also said to entertain liberal tariff ideas on the sly, as indeed most wide-awake Republicans do. He will make a strong fight for the nomination, and will get left. Dick Thornley indulges sometimes in day dreams that he is the coming man in the Second district, but it will not be until after Enos has had his turn. Mr. Capron must also wait awhile.

The foregoing are the possibilities of both parties in both districts, and yet everyone knows that mighty curious things sometimes happen in Rhode Island politics, and will not be surprised if none of those mentioned got the prizes.

POLICE NOTES.

Patrick Twomey, Dennis Murphy and John McManus have paid the usual penalty for imbibing too freely.

A Chicago picture dealer says that French war pictures will hold the crowds longer than any that he can put in his window. There is something about a French war scene that is action. Even an old engraving of Napoleon at Waterloo when put in the window will hold a crowd longer than anything else.
